Elle Chaska

Elle's background as a herbalist provided the initial inspiration for her journey into singer songwriting, with nature as the central theme for her work. She has travelled globally sharing her thought provoking music and messages to take better care of the planet and ourselves.

Elle is a multi instrumentalist whose sultry guitar progressions were likely inspired by growing up in a jazz loving household, playing guitar since a young age. Her musical style is evocative, sometimes dreamy, sometimes upbeat woven together with a thread of deep beauty. On stage, Elle is deeply engaging with the audience asking thought provoking questions in her humorous style that opens the heart and inspires the mind.

Her 2025 debut album Earthwise (produced with Tristan Starling at Chaski Records, Stroud), maps life's wild journey, from being born to discovering wonders of the natural world around us, to its natural conclusion, returning to spirit. It has been streamed in excess of 330,000 since its launch. In 2026 she released a second EP "Songs with Spirit" and her second album 'Out of the Wood' is due for release in early 2027 which she co-produced.

In 2025 she embarked on a UK wide tour “Herbs & Harmonies” playing in a variety of locations across the UK. She continues to make regular live appearances across the UK at a variety of events and private functions.

Her song ‘Home’ features in the movie “One hundred thousand lions’ by director Oliver Löwenherz whilst ‘Amanita Rise’ features in a documentary about healing mushrooms by Amanita Dreamer.

The official music video to her beautiful song about honouring the cycles of life directed by Jarro Wimbush went viral on YouTube with over 140K.

She has collaborated on her album with many notable musicians including Asha McCarthy who has also played cello for Beyonce, and Iam13E a Bristol based rapper. She also collaborated with the Alan Watts Foundation to create a song featuring the lectures of the late philosopher Alan Watts on shadow work.

Her album is available to stream on all platforms and purchase on Bandcamp: https://hypeddit.com/ellechaska/earthwise
